The final output is not the output file in the program. So then the program closes and I do not get the same output file. I put in the url and it says 'it works fine but then at the end it just stops and closes. I want to know what the cause is. Sometimes it lets the video play for a while. I got the Lumion 6 installer and clicked on open and then it downloaded the files and opens and installed but when it starts it does not open. I restarted and it was still the same. I looked at the program to see what was wrong. I did the install and it stopped without completing and at the end it just closed and started over. So then I clicked on open and the.exe file and tried to install it and it says it is already installed. I did the same thing and it worked fine. You know this means he is going to throw the first party of the summer. A series of party's will follow, and all of you will have to come and vote your favorite. Good luck! I've used HTML::Selector before with LWP::Simple, but for some reason I am having issues when I load a webpage with HTML::Selector (here is my code: use LWP::Simple qw(get); use HTML::Selector; my $url=""; my $html = get $url; my $html2 = HTML::Selector::XPath->new($html)->find_all( '//div[contains(@id,"ideas") and contains(@class,"overview-tabs-list")]'); print $html2->previous_sibling('div').get_innerHTML; When I run this code, $html2 returns nothing. Any ideas? A: You're not passing a real URL to get. It's fetching the list of ideas from the server at the current address, which is localhost: f678ea9f9e
